Once you have found the wind rose marking the kilometer zero, you can head for Montparnasse and the place de la Catalogne, which is the start of a 15 km-long greenway for an easy and safe exit from the heart of the capital! This famous Coulée verte is a continuous linear park that takes you without a car to Massy. Do not hesitate to make a stop in the remarkable park of Sceaux along the route!

The route

Leave the square of Notre Dame de Paris Cathedral towards Saint-Michel quay, and then take the Rue Danton. Follow the Veloscenic signs until Montparnasse Tower and place de Catalogne (roundabout). The rue Vercingétorix marks the start of « la coulée verte » a greenway leading you straight to Massy with no cars! An easy way to go out of Paris...

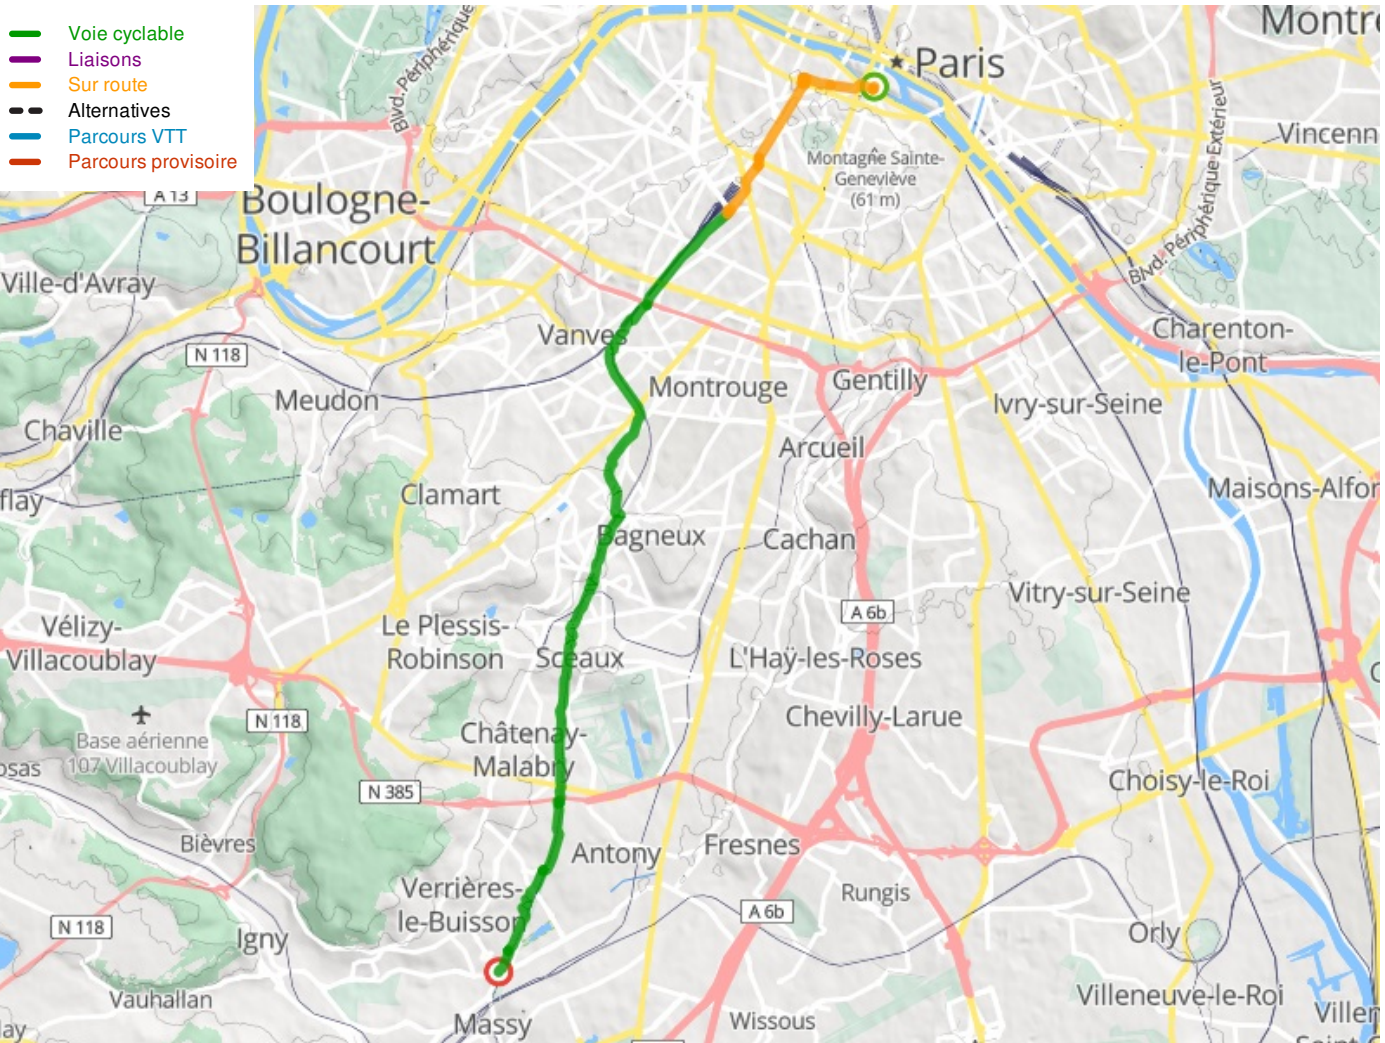

When you arrive in Massy, the Veloscenic split up in two ways:

Versailles way: 5 km from Massy to Jouy-en-Josas are not signposted yet. Signs should be installed by April 2017.

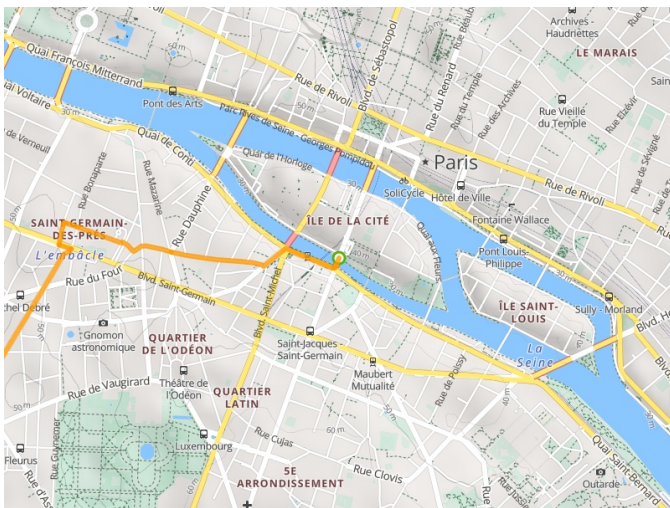

Limours way: 50 km of temporary route (no signs). We advise to download the roadbooks and gps tracks to guide you.
